

Recycled Flooring

Recycled flooring are tongue and groove boards salvaged from demolition, de-nailed and re-packed back into floor lots ready for dispatch.

The majority are 19mm thick to suit a joist and bearer sub-floor, however some floors do come thicker.

Supply notes

Due to non-standard milling practices in the past, there is a variety of floorboard thicknesses and widths in the above size ranges. Please ask us if you have to match an existing, specific size.

- All timber (recycled and re-milled) is supplied as a random length spread.
- Our timber is not sold as individual boards, it is re-packed into original reclaimed floor lots.
- Occasionally we source imported or bespoke timber species - Oregon, Baltic pine, Cedar and Ramin - though generally these don't come in large floor lots.
- Finger joint flooring is a floorboard that has a machined joint to increase the length of the board.

New Flooring

We are also able to source sustainably harvested timber from the South West of Western Australia - Jarrah, Karri, Marri and Blackbutt to produce flooring.

This timber is subject to availability and has longer lead times for production and processing.

Custom/Re-milled Flooring

Re-milled flooring is new machined floorboards milled from old structural timber. We specialise in direct stick/overlay flooring.

All these products run a tongue and groove profile, with the direct stick or overlay floorboard it is smaller.

Occasionally we source large sectioned structural timber that can be re-milled into bespoke architectural products including:

- Battens
- Benchtops
- External and internal claddings
- Lining boards
- Stair treads
- Traditional plank flooring

If you have a specific project in mind please feel free to run your ideas past us.

Re-milled Decking

Re-milled decking are new machined timber boards milled from old structural recycled timber, smooth both sides and with an arris edge to assist water runoff.

Available in two grades, Standard and Utility (commonly known as feature grade).
